Right Hemisphere Hosts Model-Based Definition Executive Roundtable Events with Dr. Ken Versprille of CPDA

Six-City Event Series Shares Results of Recent Research by Dr. Versprille on how Fortune 100 Best Practitioners Leverage their Investments in MBD

Pleasanton, CA — February 20, 2008 — Right Hemisphere®, the leading provider of visual product communication and collaboration solutions, today announced a six-city roundtable series on “Model-Based Definition for the Masses” featuring Dr. Ken Versprille and his most recent research. Dr. Versprille, who is a partner and product lifecycle management (PLM) research director at Collaborative Product Development Associates (CPDA), LLC., will lead the roundtable discussions and share his findings on how Fortune 100 best practitioners are leveraging their investments in Model-Based Definition (MBD) to drive improved efficiency, innovation, and bottom line results for their businesses.

Dr. Versprille has over 20-years experience in PLM. Before CPDA, he spent 15 years at Computervision Corporation where he was a lead architect on the CADD5 4 product, and had sole responsibility for the design of Computervision's 3D graphics system. Dr. Versprille holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics from the University of New Hampshire and earned both his master's and PhD in computer science from Syracuse University.

This event series will visit:

- Hartford, CT on March 4
- St. Louis, MO on March 5
- Seattle, WA on March 6
- Dallas-Fort Worth, Texas on March 11
- Wichita, KS on March 12
- and Manhattan Beach, CA on March 13
